in Partnership with
SAUGEEN MOBILITY and REGIONAL TRANSIT

The Counties of Bruce, Dufferin, Grey, and Wellington, in partnership with Saugeen Mobility and Regional Transit (SMART), are inviting residents and businesses to share their transportation needs and priorities as part of a new Regional Transit Study.

This study is exploring opportunities to better connect communities across the four counties, including the potential for a unified regional transit network. The goal is to make travel easier, improve coordination between services, and expand transit options in areas that are currently underserved.

A PUBLIC SURVEY is now open until January 25, 2026. Residents and businesses are encouraged to share how they currently travel, what matters most to them when it comes to transit, and their thoughts on existing transportation options in the region.

With population growth, aging demographics, and rising costs increasing demand for transportation in rural communities, your input will help shape future transit planning across Bruce, Dufferin, Grey, and Wellington Counties.

Thank you for taking the time to participate.
